I could find peace

As a child I was exposed to fighting and abuse while living in a broken family. At 11 and 13-year-old, my sister and I were on our own, without parental guidance. To fill the void, I looked to drugs, alcohol and parties.

At the age of 16 I read the Bible for the first time. An older sister who did not live with us at the time, was running away from an abusive relationship, and she also started seeking scriptures for guidance. We shared scriptures together and were both inspired.

The next day at school I spoke to a girl about what we had been reading, completely unaware that she was Spirit filled. She showed me more scriptures about salvation and invited me to attend a Revival meeting.

At that meeting I was baptised by full immersion, just as I could see was clearly laid out in the Bible.

I knew I was taking the right steps toward the Lord. Other people told me how God changed their lives and I decided to seek for the Holy Ghost, knowing I had to be born of water and of the Spirit.

That was when God filled me with the Holy Ghost, by changing my prayer to a language which I did not know, but I was overwhelmed with the knowledge that I was talking directly to God.

The void I had was gone. Instead I was filled with an amazing comfort and peace in my life.

Now twenty years on, I have my own family with my husband and four children all walking in His way.
